

Hotels and Motels near Two Rivers Aikikai

Portland is divided into quadrants: NE, SE, NW, and SW. The Willamette River divides Portland into east and west sides; Burnside Street divides the city into north and south sides. Two Rivers Aikikai is in SE Portland. The hotels nearest the dojo are in NE and SW Portland. We chose hotels near the dojo and other attractions.

On the east side of the Willamette River, these hotels are all just a little over a mile north of the dojo. All are near the Lloyd Center and Broadway shopping areas, so there are lots of coffee shops and restaurants nearby. There is also a Safeway Supermarket on E. Broadway. These hotels are also all near the MAX, Portland's Light Rail System, making it easy to go downtown (west side of the Willamette River) for dinner.

To get to the dojo using public transportation from this area, take the #70--12th Avenue bus south Belmont Street. Transfer to the #15-- Belmont St. bus east to SE 30th Avenue. The dojo is on the corner of SE Belmont St. and SE 30th Avenue. The #70 bus originates at the Rose Garden Coliseum transit center and goes east on NE Multnomah Blvd. Bus stops along Multnomah Blvd are near many of these hotels. Obtain further bus route information from www.trimet.org or check the location page of www.2rivers.org/location.htm.

The major downtown corridor with shops, restaurants, and parks is on the west side of the Willamette River. These hotels are all less than 2 miles west of the dojo. They tend to be more 'spendy' than the east side hotels. However, several are right on the river, which makes watching the boat and pedestrian traffic fun.

To get to the dojo using public transportation from this area, take the #15--Belmont bus east from the bus stop at SW 5th and Salmon, which is walking distance from most of the hotels listed. The bus will cross the Willamette River with nice views on sunny days. Get off at the SE 30th Avenue stop and walk across SE 30th to the dojo.
